

'Holland tells the story brilliantly. He has delved into archives for letters and diaries and diligently tracked down survivors ... Vividly, intelligently, movingly, Holland's monumental chronicle tells it like it was.' PATRICK BISHOP, Mail on Sunday

'Holland has produced a wonderful book whose pace ... never seems to flag ... he is a master at evoking time and place, with haunting descriptions of the desert landscape ... If there is a better book on the North African campaign, I haven't read it.' SAUL DAVID, Daily Telegraph

'... James Holland uproots many of the still-flourishing myths about the campaigns and goes in search of the real experiences of the men who fought them. Using personal testimony and private memoirs as effectively as official archives, he recreates the hardships and challenges faced by ordinary soldiers and reassesses the tactical and strategic innovations that finally gave the allies the upper hand.' The Sunday Times

'... a ripping yarn ... Anyone who wants to know how it felt to fight in the desert war should read Holland's book. It represents a remarkable collation of personal experience and sensible historical judgments.'

MAX HASTINGS, Sunday Telegraph

'Stands out from the crowd.' NIGEL JONES, Literary Review

'As Holland shows, this period saw the realisation of how the war might eventually be won.' BBC History Magazine

'The book gives the individuals, be they commander-in-chiefs or infantry, space that attests to their bravery and sacrifices ... a comprehensive appraisal of the war in North Africa.' Good Book Guide

'Together We Stand is not merely another war book written by yet another author with a skill for historical military research and battle narrative. Written by the very talented James Holland, this book is as informative and surprising as it is vast in its scope and content ... Holland spares very little when it comes to bringing the reader up close and personal with the bloody business of armoured warfare ... a thoroughly enjoyable read by any standards ... a remarkable story in itself.'

Evening Echo

Visit www.AuthorTracker.co.uk for exclusive information on your favourite HarperCollins authors.

UK £12.99*

*recommended price

ISBN 978-0-00-717646-5

9 780007 176465 >

Cover montage photographs including foreground image (MMW £13994) © Imperial War Museum

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	vii
List of Maps	ix
Principle Personalities	xliii
Principle Commanders	xlix
Introduction	lvii
Prologue: Sidi Rezegh, Libya: November 1941	xli
PART I: NADIR	3
1 Calm Before the Storm: Monday, 4 May 1942	27
2 A Brief Discourse on Tactics and Equipment	56
3 Enter America	75
4 Missed Opportunities: 26 May-5 June 1942	107
5 Into the Cauldron: 4-10 June 1942	132
6 Knightsbridge: 11-18 June 1942	152
7 Surrender and Retreat: 19 June-1 July 1942
PART II: COMING TOGETHER	185
8 Parry: July 1942 Part 1	212
9 And Thrust: July 1942 Part 2	231
10 New Faces: 1-12 August 1942	256
11 A Victory at Last: 13 August-4 September 1942	286
12 Getting Ready Part 1: September 1942	313
13 Getting Ready Part 2: October 1942
PART III: ADVANCE AND RETREAT	349
14 Into Battle: 23-6 October 1942	374
15 Attrition: 26 October-3 November 1942	398
16 Lighting the Torch: 5-11 November 1942	429
17 The Race for Tunis: November 1942	455
18 Harsh Realities: December 1942	484
19 Pause for Thought: January 1943

20	Conflicting Personalities: 18 January–13 February 1943	516
21	Rommel Strikes Back: 14–22 February 1943	547
PART IV: SHOULDER TO SHOULDER
22	Alex and Mary Take Control: 22 February–20 March	577
23	Left Hook: 17–31 March 1943	607
24	Joining Hands: 1–18 April 1943	642
25	Endgame: 19 April–13 May 1943	674
	Postscript	705
	Glossary	723
	Codenames	725
	Notes	727
	Bibliography and Sources	745
	Acknowledgements	767
	Index	769